[Download free pdf] 50 Wooden Crafts to Make With Kids: Quick and Easy Projects Parents and Children Can Make at Home

50 Wooden Crafts to Make With Kids: Quick and Easy Projects Parents and Children Can Make at Home

Ellen J. Hobart
*DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

DOWNLOAD READ ONLINE

#4408764 in Books 1994-04-05 1994-04-05Original language:English 5.50 x 7.75 x .50l, #File Name: 051788175696 pages | File size: 38.Mb

Ellen J. Hobart : 50 Wooden Crafts to Make With Kids: Quick and Easy Projects Parents and Children Can Make at Home before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 50 Wooden Crafts to Make With Kids: Quick and Easy Projects Parents and Children Can Make at Home:

Kids love to watch grown-ups use woodworking tools, but what they love even more is making the sawdust fly themselves. With minimal equipment and adult help, your child will soon be turning out a wonderful variety of toys, games, gifts, household objects, and holiday decorations. These 50 easy and inexpensive projects are arranged by age and skill level.Ellen J. Hobart is a free-lance magazine writer and a self-described "crafts freak." Coming from a large family, she's been known to start making next year's holiday wooden crafts even before the January sales are over. Ellen has given many of these crafts to special folks on her list.Eva Shaw specializes in writing how-to books and has more than 1,000 published credits. Her books include the best-sellers Ghostwriting: How to Get into the Business and 60-Second Shiatzu.Pam Posey is an eminent free-lance illustrator. Her art styles range from realistic to cartoon. Pam's work has appeared in storybooks and coloring books (including the famous Thomas the Tank Engine) and on greeting cards, games, and apparel.

From the Inside FlapKids love to watch grown-ups use woodworking tools, but what they love even more is making the sawdust fly themselves. With minimal equipment and adult help, your child will soon be turning out a wonderful variety of toys, games, gifts, household objects, and holiday decorations. These 50 easy and inexpensive projects are arranged by age and skill level.Ellen J. Hobart is a free-lance magazine writer and a self-described "crafts freak." Coming from a large family, she's been known to start making next year's holiday wooden crafts even before the January sales are over. Ellen has given many of these crafts to special folks on her list.Eva Shaw specializes in writing how-to books and has more than 1,000 published credits. Her books include the best-sellers Ghostwriting: How to Get into the Business and 60-Second Shiatzu.Pam Posey is an eminent free-lance illustrator. Her art styles range from realistic to cartoon. Pam's work has appeared in storybooks and coloring books (including the famous Thomas the Tank Engine) and on greeting cards, games, and apparel.