Like with most things in lifeBy J AlbertI am a huge fan of "Storey Country Wisdom Bulletins", but for some reason, this one did not fill the bill for me. Looking back, it seem to miss details and list that were meaningful. Any older home is a risk. Heck, even today's new homes are a risk. Like with most things in life, use common sense. Create your own checklist to follow that has your priorities. The bulletin does have some important points, so for $3 bucks, it is worth the the money if you are serious about buying an older home.

Since 1973, Storey's Country Wisdom Bulletins have offered practical, hands-on instructions designed to help readers master dozens of country living skills quickly and easily. There are now more than 170 titles in this series, and their remarkable popularity reflects the common desire of country and city dwellers alike to cultivate personal independence in everyday life.
