Be Jane's is NOW my go to book for Carpenter Supreme: ME !!!By Eleanor TurnerI HAD to buy Jane's book and I had renewed my library copy so often, I was told "no more renewals".I just could not let the copy go! I was delighted to find it at . This is a great wedding shower gift, even tho the group may snicker a bit. Be strong; Do it!. Indeed, I have read it there and say it here; the most up to date wedding gift or Going on My Own gift to singles (men and women), is the Electric Drill. You will find out why, but until then, you can do these projects with the usual' screwdrivers, hammers, etc. Eleanor Turner, Richmond, Va.7 of 7 people found the following review helpful. Must have for the female DIYerBy L. LusterHeidi and Eden are two girls that know what they are talking about. The book is very well laid out and instructions are clear cut. I've been fans of these "Janes" for awhile so when I saw that they had a book, I had to be one of the first to get it. I'm very glad that I did. One of my favorite and most interesting projects in the book is changing the face of your appliances to stainless steel. I was planning on buying all brand new appliances until I learned that you could do it with stainless steel adhesive. These girls definitely rock! If you are a first time homeowner like me and short on money to pay a contractor, then this book is a must! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I checked out the book from my local library...By K. Lane...But liked it so much that I bought it. The book is set up clearly and covers topics that women are interested in. Yes, that means that other repair books are more man-centric. That isn't a bad thing, but it takes a long time to find what you're interested in doing.

Ladies, Tighten Your Tool Belts and Make Your Home Your Own! Heidi Baker and Eden Jarrin did just that when they found themselves living in fixer-uppers and couldn't afford to hire professionals to help. With virtually no home improvement experience but plenty of eagerness to learn, they put on their tool belts, picked up their nail guns, and turned their blah and boring houses into beautiful homes they loved. The unexpected bonus? A sense of confidence that touched every aspect of their lives. Inspired by the experience, they started Be Jane, a company that empowers women to change their lives by taking on home improvement projects they never thought possible. And what the Be Janes can do, you can do! Be Janes Guide to Home Empowerment provides all the know-how and reassurance you'll need to undertake more than fifty projects large and small, from replacing doorknobs to adding trendy concrete countertops in the kitchen. Everything in here can be done by the most inexperienced do-it-yourselfer—just check the JQ (Jane Quotient) to see how much time and effort a project will take. So let the sawdust fly . . . and join the thousands of Janes who have learned that home improvement isn't scary—it's downright empowering!

About the Author After facing the male-dominated world of home improvement, authors Heidi Baker and Eden Jarrin have made it their mission to build the most comprehensive do-it-yourself community for women. Through their inspirational message of Home Empowerment, they've been helping women of all ages find their "inner Jane" and share projects, experiences, and knowledge with others on their website, www.BeJane.com. Both authors live in the Los Angeles area.
