1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Building your own log furnitureBy Conrad DuBoisThis is a good book for anyone that wants to learn to build log furniture. Book starts out with simple furniture and the tools needed to start. Then the book goes into beds, chairs, tables and living room furniture. I have built a log stool, log lamps, log bedside stand, log hall tree to hang coats on. I have also made candle holders for the big candles. I still have some other log projects to build when it gets cold again. So if you do not like to pay high prices for log furniture, go into the woods and find dead but firm 2-3 inch diameter logs and find a sawmill where you can get slab wood for benches and this book and get started. 8 of 8 people found the following review helpful. A good starting placeBy CindyThere are few reference works available in this category. Fortunately, this one is a useful, helpful, and clear guide to the art of making log furniture. We have yet to faithfully follow any of the authors' detailed step-by-step plans. The text and pictures were clear enough to enable us to start right off making our own derivative designs. Thanks, guys! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. was good startBy Shirley G. MilsteadThis book had good items and was in good condition as promised

Talk about a fun ,creative,productive and practical tool for building your own log furniture-which you then keep... -- Joe Vitale, Author of There's a Customer Born Every Minute This book is the definitive source ,for building log furniture. Dan Les share years of knowledge and love... -- Henry Krumrei, Associate Product Manager Minwax Company About the Author Les Smith, is an artist, carpenter, and a master in the old art of log furniture building. Les got his first experience in carpentry in the T.V. studios back in the 70s building sets for shows like "SUNNY CHER" show "DONNEY MARIE OSMOND" show etc. Ten years ago he started building with logs has never stopped! In december of 1999 Les smith started teaching a class thru Colorado Free University. Students that signed up for the class payed for tuition materials totaling $150.00 The projects the students completed were theirs to take home. At the end of the day everyone was happy. Some of the projects they built in the one day class had a retail value of between $100 $300.00. Three hundred students later there is now a book. Co-author: Dan Swesey carpenter, instructor, talented log furniture builder shared his knowledge to help make this book complete.
